Rebel Flag Will "Fly" Overseas Thanks To IFYE's Visit Here

Appomattox FHA members added a Rebel flag to the many "charms" which Carole Ann Farm Youth Exchange student, now wears on a bracklet to remind her of her month's stay in Appomattox. She left Wednesday for a Mid-Point conference at the University of Minnesota and then another month's visit in Texas.

Speaking to the FHA Tuesday places in England —then talked about differences "here" and "there".

Corn-on-Cob

She likes corn-on-the-cob and sampled it for the first time as guest of Cmdr. and Mrs. H. P. Latr, Pamplin.

She finds southern heat a "trifle exhausting" noting that temperatures seldom get over 90 in her native Worcestershire. "It doesn't always rain in England," she said, "and there's not as much fog as people here think."

And not everyone at home has the "beatle" cut, said Carole. Usually, only the sixteen-seventeen year old boys and girls, she added.

This attractive 23 year old has spoken to many clubs during her stay. Hosts for the second half of her month's stay have been the Hugh Brafords. Her stay in this county is sponsored by the National Federation of Young Farmers Clubs, British equivalen to 4-H Clubs.

Farm Bureau Says Wheat Program Has Forced Twenty-Year Price Sag

The recently enacted Freeman wheat program has forced the price of Virginia grown wheat down to the lowest price in the last twenty to twenty-five years," the Virginia Farm Bureau Board of Directors said at their meeting here yesterday.

Wheat in Virginia is currently selling at about $1.30 as compared to $1.75 to $1.80 last year, the board noted. "Wheat imports, they continued, "that most Virginia wheat producers are losing around 40 cents per bushel for their wheat because of the program."

"It should be remembered," said the Board, "that the present program is basically the same program that our Virginia wheat growers overwhelmingly rejected last year. Virginia farmers continued to show their disapproval of the program by staying out and only about one wheat producer in five is now cooperating in the program.

"Virginia farmers who are not getting the low - low price of $1.30 for their 1964 wheat crop are likely to blame it on the bureaucratic propaganda," the board continued.

Information sent to Congressmen earlier this year by the USDA made the statement that if the wheat proposal was not approved it into law it would mean the loss of 40,000 jobs plus the loss of unheard sums of money for such things as education, medical care, transportation, etc the board pointed out.

"We would like to know," the board said, "what 40,000 jobs would have been eliminated had the Freeman program not been passed by the Congress."

"The Board of Directors of Virginia's largest farm organization also stated. "We feel that the Secretary has broken faith with the American farmer by persuading Congress to foist off on the wheat producer a program that is so repressive in its price control that it will cost Virginia wheat farmers roughly $1.5 million this year."

The Farm Bureau directors continued, "Flour millers have to pay 70 cents tax on each bushel of wheat used for flour regardless of wheather or not the government pays the producer this amount. Most Virginia farmers do not receive any government payments on their wheat. The consuming public should be aware," they said, "that the 70 cents per bushel will cause an increase in the price of flour which will end up as a bread tax paid by the [illegible] creased bread [illegible]

"We believe this vindictive in the farmers' [illegible] year's referendum ed a similar program the Congress [illegible] States to take [illegible] to repeal this [illegible] sive program, [illegible] unnecessary [illegible] backs of both [illegible] sumers, and at [illegible] allowing farmers [illegible] free market [illegible] again," the board

Sunday afternoon was a delightful occasion for us, as Dandy Buchanan and son Bobby Bill, took us on a rambling ride through Buckingham County. We drove to the Davidson Orchards near Gold Hill and stocked up with fine peaches as if ever one could hope to see. Then we proceded to Andersonville and the Morgan plantation where Mrs. Hattie Morgan and son, Ivanhoe Morgan, preside with Old Virginia charm and hospitality. Heavens to Betsy, they have everything that makes for gracious living. We tried to make friends with "Miss Nannie the goat, but didn't get very far. A baby chicks and other barnyard residents, and then adjourned to see the perfectly marvelous collection of antique furniture, pictures, etc., and treasures played a tune for us on his rare foot-pedaled organ. Old clocks, a coffee grinder, violins. . . . Oh name it, it's there. Ivanhoe is also a successful coin collector, and has had dealings with men miles to Farmville daily where he is bookkeeper at The Herald. Comment: In this world of turmoil and strife, we could stand a Renaissance of G-acious Living.

To end up on a last musical note: The cal who almost "stole the show" at The recent Democratic Convention in Richmond was Jody Weaver Wampler at the Moscow Organ. I was so delighted with her talent at the organ I went up and got her autograph, and found out that she was a daughter of Eddie Weaver, the great organist at Loew's Theater Later I will have to write of what a wonderful show presented by our friend Mark Saure during a recess at the convention. Speaking of recesses, this column will now stand in recess until next issue. Thanks for listening.

New Crewe Air Field To Hold Formal Opening On August 2

CREWE — A formal opening of the new Crewe Air Field is planned for Sunday, Aug. 2, from 12 noon to 8 p.m.

Pilots who fly out of the Crewe Air Field will give free plane rides around town to those who desire. Although there is no charge for the rides, the pilots are asking for contributions from those who fly to help retire a $3500 note that the Crewe Flying Club made to help complete the field.

In addition to the 10 planes based at the Crewe Air Field, the pilots hope to have several demonstrator planes from various airplane companies. "At least 15 planes will be available for those who wish to fly," a spokesman for the group said.

"The Crew Air Field is a commercial field, built with state, town of Crewe, and private funds. Anyone can land a plane at the field and buy gasoline there. It was started by a Flying Club, Inc., which had to put up some of the funds to built it, but it is not a private field as some people seem to think: Anyone and everyone is welcome to use the field and everyone is invited to come and inspect the field, especially on Sunday, Aug. 2, when we have our formal opening," the spokesman said.

Team. The Rebel's very versatile Doug Mitchell was also chosen to the team. Doug's versatility and 289 batting average was one of the big reason why the Rebels finished so strong.

Consider Airport For Cumberland

A jointly-operated Farmville-Prince Edward - Cumberland county airport located in Cumberland county, but within five miles of Farmville, is practical and feasible, the Airport committee of the Farmville Chamber of Commerce has suggested.

The committee's suggestion has the endorsement of the Cumberland County Industrial Development group.

Baber has made a study of financing plans, including that one exclusively available to Cumberland county because of its eligibility status for federal Area Redevelopment Administration aid as an area of chronic unemployment and underemployment.

Robert E. Taylor, chairman of the Chamber's Airport committee, said there are three available sites under consideration, two in Cumberland. One in Prince Edward county. The Cumberland sites, he said, are superior both being more level and offering nearly a mile for a modern runway and approaches.
